Coach Hanlon joined the Michigan football staff in 1969 and was the only assistant coach to serve on Michigan's staff during all 21 years that Bo Schembechler was head coach. Hanlon was the team's offensive line coach for 17 years (1969–1981, 1988–1991) and the quarterback coach for six years (1982–1987). He was credited with developing 19 All-American offensive linemen at Michigan, including Dan Dierdorf, Reggie McKenzie, Jumbo Elliott and Greg Skrepenak.
